CALL TO ORDER 9:06 PM

MYSTERY ACTIVITY 9:07 PM
This Mystery Activity is going to be hosted by our wonderful Jennifer! Emily is going to pass out materials. Wait, nevermind, this is going to be co-hosted by Elee and Andrea!
Hi, okay, so what we’re about to do is an activity called Diversity in the Dark. Andrea and myself are going to say a statement, and you’ll shake your cup with the M&Ms in it if you relate to what’s being said. If you don’t have a cup, you can clap once. Everyone’s eyes are going to be closed. This is to show that you have more in common with each other than you might think.
Make sure you’re not looking around.
Shake your cup if you’ve ever been told that you’re not welcome in a space.
Shake your cup if English is your second language.
Shake your cup if you don’t know how you’re supposed to be acting in different areas.
Shake your cup if you’ve ever felt judged based off of your appearance.
Shake your cup if you’ve ever felt like an outsider.
Okay, you guys can open your eyes. This was a very miniature version of Diversity in the Dark, but we wanted to talk to you all about the importance of talking about diversity in different spaces. This semester, we’re doing a program called Return to Sender: The Journey of a Refugee, and it’s an important topic. It’s going to be next week, on Wednesday, and we’ll talk more about it later. I want you all to think about what you just felt, what you have in common with others, and what you haven’t experienced that others have.

The Chosen One BUZZ Bingo
What up, you guys? Remember that time I said it was karaoke and it was actually bingo? Well, it was great! It looked like you guys had a great time. I got some great pictures, and they’ll be up soon. I gave away a mac-and-cheese maker. I don’t know who got it, but we’ll have mac-and-cheese together. I hope you liked it. I hope you enjoyed it. That’s it. Thanks for coming out. Love you.

G.R.O.W.
So G.R.O.W. happened. It was lots of fun. We learned a lot about ourselves, about time management, and about our leadership styles. I hope you got something out of it, and good luck on applications.

AC Retreat
Oh, that’s me. AC Retreat is coming. It’s going to be 2/24 at an art studio, and it’s going to be from 10:30 to 2. We’re meeting at 10:30am in the Route 32 lot. Your sheets are due now. If you don’t have one, you can’t go. Just letting you know. Thanks. Get those in tonight. We’re going to have a great time painting and sipping.
Elee - If, for some reason, you haven’t handed them in, you can slide them under the door of the office until midnight.
Andrea - Elee’s being nice to you all.
Crispell - What if we need another sheet?
Andrea - I’m not the nice parent.
Elee - You lost your sheet? Make another one on looseleaf or something.

Return to Sender
So, as Elee mentioned earlier, it’s focused on Diversity and the experiences of those that are forcefully displaced. This program is something we all hold dear to our hearts and we would love it if y’all came out to support and expand your thoughts. It’ll be a walk-through, interactive type of program, so stop by at any point with your friends or Hall Gov. If you can’t come, share the event on Facebook to show your support. Get the word out. Thank you!
Breanne - If you email this information to wfnp.production@gmail.com, we can make announcements for you to get the word out.
Elee - This is important because it’s more than what RHSA has done in terms of Diversity programming in the past, so we want to get the word out.

Elections
Hi everybody! Alright, so before we get started, our VP has some election tips for you.
Andrea - Hey y’all, so if you look in your folders, you’ll see a lovely sheet that looks like this.
Oooooooooooh aaaaaaaaah. Is Andrea a graphic designer? Basically. We have things on here that are a no-no...do you want to do this, Mario? It’s kind of your job.
Mario - Yeah, sure. These are a couple of tips to help you out because it’s hard. As I said before, you can’t use “I” statements, because you’re representing your hall, so use your hall when you speak. The next part is what you should look for in a candidate. That would be their goals, their understanding of what the position is, how they meet the expectations we listed, the information in their application...if you were reading their application and read something that really moved you or motivated you, you can bring it up. Also, any information they said in the speech. You should say your points to the whole council so everyone can get your point of view. There are more tips for how to prepare, like reading the application before coming, and at the bottom is some cool little phrases you can use to make this go smoother. You aren’t limited to using these, but they’re just some helpful tips. Any questions?
Brandon - This isn’t a question. As Mario said, don’t use “I” statements, but also steer clear of speculation. There are a lot of things that you can’t gauge from the information that you have.
Mario - Any outside information should be avoided as well. You need to leave emotion out. You’re not voting on whether or not you like the person. You’re voting for if they can do a good job. Keep it fair.

Andrea - Also, check out the Venn diagram. That was so much fun to make. That’s what you’re looking for in a potential candidate. Does the candidate have experience? Not necessarily in the position itself, but experience that would help them in the role. Does the candidate have new ideas? Ideas can be for the position, or for RHSA as a whole. The part in the pink is our goals. They meet all of the qualifications we want. Also, good luck y’all. We understand that it’s hard and annoying to get shut down, but you’re trying your best. We’re all trying our best.

Mario - If I call you out, it’s nothing personal. I’m just doing my job.

Elee - We swear he’s really nice. Also, nobody who leaves this room can re-enter. If anyone wants to come in, Emily is in the back and she’s going to stop them. Also, there must be no talking unless I call on you. Even if you’re in the back. It’s disruptive. You can write notes to each other; in fact, we encourage it. You can pass notes up to the front. Write your note and the name of your hall on it, then hand it to Emily and she can bring it up to your reps. She’s also going to watch out for the use of phones, laptops, or any other kind of technology. If she sees you using any of those things, Emily will ask you to leave. Don’t make Emily ask you to leave.

Mario - Also, if you’re sitting in the front and don’t get a note passed to you, don’t be afraid to write things out before you say them. You probably should do that. It makes everything go more smoothly.

Elee - You guys did really great last election, and I’d like to hear everyone talk during this one. Every one of you that has a placard is going to be voting, so I’d like to make sure that your voices are heard. Sam was escorted out of the room with Jennifer.

Elee - At this time, I will read the roles of the President. The President is the neutral resource to all E-Board members, AC members, and Hall Gov Liaisons. They are the link between the administration and RHSA. As President, I have monthly one-on-ones with every E-Board member, biweekly meetings with our advisors, and biweekly meetings with the Assistant Director of Residence Life, Jenn Slader. I also attend both NEACURH RLC and SLC, and NACURH, and PresCab meetings. I run AC meetings and E-Board meetings, I work with the Treasurer to make the budget, and I do a lot of behind-the-scenes things that people don’t know, like keeping everyone in check. I make sure that things are going the way they should at all times. The job takes a lot of dedication, because my roles aren’t just restrained within the two meetings and my office hours.

EXPECTATIONS:

Elee - At this time, we will go over the expectations that we have for our next President.

Catherine - Extensive knowledge of RHSA

Rui - Incredible communication skills

Catherine - New ideas

Bouton - Public speaking confidence and skills

Ridgeview - Time management skills

Lefevre - Conflict management skills

Someone in the back - Social responsibility

Crispell - Kindness, for everyone

Lenape - Punctuality

Elee - That’s my favorite word

Bouton - Open-mindedness

Lenape - Organized

Pharez - Believes everyone’s input is important

Brandon - Professionalism
Rui - Knowledge of all E-Board positions
Lefevre - Passion
Catherine - Has students’ best interests in mind
Collango - Respectful
Crispell - In reference to Collango’s comment, being entertaining while being respectful
Andrea - Open to constructive criticism
Dariana - Adaptability
Rui - Can give constructive criticism
Lenape - Understanding or knowledgeable about NEACURH and NACURH
Emily - Don’t forget understanding
Bevier - Humble
Esopus - Ambitious
Elee - Alright. Seeing no more, I’m going to remind you all of how elections work. The candidate will give a speech that is up to three minutes in length. After that, we will have a five-minute question and answer period that is extendable up to three times. After that, the candidate will leave the room, and we will have a five-minute discussion period that is also extendable up to three times. We will then vote.

PRESENTATION:
Sam - Hey everyone! My name is Samuel Halligan the current public relations officer of RHSA and I am running for president of RHSA. I got involved with RHSA my first semester here as an AC Rep for Scudder Hall and my love for the organization has only grown since then. As per the position these are things required of me:
The President shall act as a neutral resource to all Executive Board members, AC Representatives, and Hall Government members. He or she acts as the liaison between administrational offices on campus and the residence hall student body. He or she also attends weekly one on ones with an advisor and Jenn Slader, the assistant director residence life. The President attends monthly President’s Cabinet meetings and monthly CAS Board meetings. Finally the president runs weekly AC meetings, Executive Board meetings, and is responsible for maintaining the integrity of the organization.
30 seconds
One of my biggest goals if elected into the position is to establish a better campus wide community. I want to do this by working from the bottom up and planting seeds of success. I want to support RA Liaisons and make the position more concise so the workload is understood.

Motion to open Q&A: Dubois
Second: Gage

QUESTION & ANSWER:
Lenape - How do you plan to help build community in New Paltz, on the campus?
Sam - Community in general?
Lenape - Yeah.
Sam - I think programming, and this is coming from an RA and RHSA perspective, brings communities together, but if you have no one going because they don’t feel like a part of it, you have to start from the ground up. I want to help with the RA Liaison position to make it more focused on recruitment. I’ve been looking into stuff for next year, and something I’ve been looking into, that would likely be in the territory of the PR position, would be utilising the all students email chain. Maybe once or twice a semester, we could email-blast all of the resident students. It could be about joining Hall Government, and then about Spirit Weekend, our two biggest things.
Deyo - If you had more time to finish your speech, what would you have said?
Sam - I got to the best parts of it, but the last part says that I’m organized, and I’ve been on this E-Board for almost a year now while managing RA, so I have good time management skills, and I love RHSA. I know how much I’ve grown so far, and how much I will continue to grow. I want to direct RHSA in my own vision.
Bouton - Can you elaborate more on your ideas for strengthening the RA Liaison position?
Sam - I’ve begun talking to the administration about this, because I knew that there was a chance that I wouldn’t get this position and in that case, I wouldn’t be able to make changes myself, but I think the position needs to be more focused. Sometimes, the bar is set super high for those in the position, because there are no directions, so some Liaisons shoot really high, and then others see that and think they can’t do that or don’t have time for that. I want to set a medium-level bar for what they should be doing, so they’re still able to focus on RA stuff. I also think all RAs should be involved in Hall Government to an extent. Like, they don’t have to be involved in it enough for it to cause stress, but enough to be involved so they have experience and can encourage others to join.
Collango - Do you have any new ideas to change RHSA policy?
Sam - I have made a couple of amendments that I haven’t put through yet, mainly because there hasn’t been any ink in the RHSA printer and I don’t want to waste my PaperCut budget. One thing we decided as an E-Board is that you don’t need conference experience to have the NCC position. I feel like constitutional reform is an E-Board thing. That was the NCC thing. There was a thing where the PR printer budget isn’t in the constitution. I want to put it in so more people know about it. Also, for Treasurer, there was something about receipts having to be in within two weeks. There are more, but those can be discussed with a full Board next year.
Bliss - If an AC member gave you criticism about how you run RHSA, what would you do?
Sam - Especially if it’s constructive criticism, it is important. I’d take it to the E-Board, if it’s about the way we run RHSA as a whole, and if it’s just about me, I’d talk to an advisor to see if others are seeing it as well. I’d address it no matter what.
30 seconds
Motion to extend by five minutes
Second
Deyo - Who did you talk to, and what was the best piece of advice you were given?
Sam - I talked to Elee, Catherine, Matt Eitelberg, and Kyleen. The best piece of advice I was given, I wrote it down, was from Kyleen. She says, and I quote, “Don’t take it so seriously. Don’t take it so seriously, while also recognizing the impact I have, knowing the way that the way I portray the organization and treat people will leave marks forever.” I think that was impactful because the actions I take now, no matter where, will make impacts for the next maybe even ten years. I took it to heart, and I plan to carry it with me.
Lefevre - Do you think your experience as PR will help you with President, and if so, how?
Sam - I feel like I’ve learned a lot about time management, balancing PR with RA. I think it has taught me a lot. I mean, being a general E-Board member, not just PR, has taught me a lot about managing, organizing, and planning events.
-- I have 13 hearts, but no other organs. What am I? -- Bouton - What are some good qualities of a President, and how do you plan to embody these qualities?
Sam - Some good qualities are being a kind, genuine figure to others, being timely, organized, passionate. I think I’m passionate, and if someone wasn’t and was leading RHSA, it wouldn’t have the same meaning. Someone who can delegate tasks when they need to, organize things well. That might be it. Oh, commanding a crowd, maybe. Knowing the right time to smack a gavel, or call on the future NCC to do something.
Collango - What are your plans for operating committees that were run through RHSA?
Sam - As of right now, there are no committees being run through RHSA. I like the idea of committees, but they usually don’t work. One we had a while ago that I would consider bringing back was a lowkey Sustainability committee, and they would go around campus and pick up garbage. We could maybe bring that back. Committees for programming were hard. There was the Commercial committee...I don’t think committees work that well unless they have dedicated members. I can try to advertise, but I don’t know if I’ll bring them back.

Capen - What is one weakness of yours, and how do you turn it into a strength?
Sam - I’m a very futuristic person. I love thinking about the future and planning ahead. You can even ask Elee, even six months ago, I wanted to be President and I started developing plans. I learned it was also a weakness. I learned from having a group of individuals around me who can help reel me in. It’s a good weakness to have in a group setting, because being around people who can help you plan that vision and make it a reality is helpful.

Motion to extend by five minutes
Second
Deyo - It’s important to have a strong, connected E-Board. How do you plan to better connect your E-Board?
Sam - E-Board bonding is one of the most important things, because it promotes strong communication. Strong connection, well, it just comes with the role itself. When you spend so much time with a group of people, even without bonding, even just being around people, at the beginning of the year, I barely knew these people. Today, I stand in front of some of my best friends, and they’re people I’ve met from this. I’d bring back traditional bonding. We went last semester with all of the advisors to B-Side and we had a great time. I also like meaningful conversations at 2am.

Lefevre - If there was a conflict in your E-Board, how would you handle it?
Sam - Between two people, or the E-Board overall?
Lefevre - Overall?
Sam - The best way to handle conflict is to open communication between the whole E-Board. Everyone has to talk about handling problems. If that doesn’t work, we can bring in an advisor to guide them without supervising. If it was more of a one person with another conflict, I’d let them figure it out. If they couldn’t, I would then step in, and if I couldn’t help, I’d bring in an Advisor.

Lenape - What about if you had issues with the advisors?
Sam - This is a little tricky to answer, but with advisors, I think it’s important for them to remember to advise, not supervise. They should also have a heart in the organization. I should be able to bring up conflicts with advisors o them. I shouldn’t be afraid, and no one should, to talk to the advisors. If there’s a conflict, it’s important to clear it up soon.

Lefevre - You said community-building is important. What are your ideas to get more people involved that aren’t in the community?
Sam - Campus outreach. Reaching out to other orgs to get people involved from outside. That would be the point of getting the all residents email chain. We could use that to advertise to all of campus and let them know Hall Gov is an option, even if they think their time for it is up. That’s why I want all RAs to do it, because then they can recommend it to people, even seniors and juniors who think they can’t.

Collango - As President, you have to be knowledgeable of other E-Board positions to know what to talk about in one-on-ones. What’s your knowledge of the other positions?
Sam - Andrea is VP. She primarily deals with programming. Dariana goes to CAS, does DOs, and talks to June. Jules types minutes and almost loses their fingers. Mario, you do conference and parliamentarian and represent our school. Jennifer handles campus communication coordinating, which basically means she runs the GFP system, communicates with RA Liaisons, and talks to other orgs. Emily takes pictures during events, uploads them, and runs the website.
30 second
Motion to extend by five minutes
Second
Crispell - In case of, say, for a program, supplies don’t come in on time or there’s not enough or something, how would you handle that?
Sam - Improvisation is fantastic and I love it. You have to have a back-up plan for your back-up plan for your back-up plan. If you have a feeling that there might not be enough supplies, or you might not have something, then you have a back-up, but be sure to have multiple things to fall back on so you don’t fall into a ditch. You can always improvise.
Lenape - How much do you know about NEACURH and NACURH?
Sam - There are eight regions in NACURH. We are a part of the NEACURH region. We go to conference and also to...forget it, but we go to RLC, SLC, and NACURH. When we go, Mario goes to boardroom. You can go to joint boardroom and programming. As President, I would go to President boardrooms. My association with NEACURH and NACURH isn’t huge, but I need to know the basics as President.

Motion to close Q&A: Capen

Motion to Open Discussion: Bouton
Second: Collango

DISCUSSION:
Crispell - Crispell believes that the adaptability of the candidate is very...that the candidate has a vast amount of adaptability.
Gage - Gage thinks that Sam presented that he has extensive knowledge of everything we listed.
Lenape - Lenape believes that Sam was very confident when speaking, and was very comfortable with us as an AC, and that’s something that you want to keep in mind when electing someone into a position. Make sure they’re professional, but not so professional that they’re closed-off.
Bouton - Sam is clearly so passionate about community, which is such a big part of RHSA’s mission statement, and Bouton believes that will make him a great President.
Crispell - Crispell believes that Sam’s ability to laugh and be able to also come up with ways to be professional is a good quality.
Collango - Collango believes that the candidate does have plans to reach more than just Hall Government in terms of programming.
Bouton - Bouton feels that Sam’s idea to sent out an email blast was a great way to reach out to the whole campus.
Deyo - Deyo believes that an important skill he mentioned was being organized and having good time management skills, since he’s an RA and on E-Board.
Esopus - Esopus believes that Sam touched on almost all expectations that we listed, especially knowledge.
Capen - Capen believes that Sam showed he can receive constructive criticism, because he didn’t hesitate to share his weakness.
Esopus - Esopus believes that Sam is a very genuine person and that he wants to help everyone feel included.
Mario - Point of order, you can’t gauge how genuine someone is by what they say in a speech, so that shouldn’t be brought up.
Lenape - Lenape believes that Sam’s prepared to resolve conflict with the E-Board and with advisors.
Crissell - Point of information, what is like...?
Elee - Input liker
Deyo - Deyo also believes he’s passionate and ambitious. He was thinking of running long before it being suggested to him, and just as he started PR.
Lenape - Yield to redundancy.
30 second
Motion to extend by five minutes
Second
Bouton - Bouton believes that Sam is...his good quality is being able to take constructive criticism, because he mentioned that, even if criticism isn’t constructive, he’ll find out why the person said it.
Lenape - Lenape believes that Sam is very entertaining, as listed on our expectations.
Crissell - Crissell believes that Sam is a very input liker, as said in our list. He is willing to take criticism/input from anyone who gives it, situation depending.
Lefevre - Lefevre believes that Sam would not only be suitable for President, but he would be a great E-Board member, because of the experience and passion he listed.

Collango calls to question.

Elections for Vice President will be at our next meeting, which is two weeks from now, and applications for Treasurer will be due then.

Recyclemania
Kaitlyn - I come bearing gifts! I have a bunch of posters for you guys. There’s enough for everyone to take two, one of each design, and probably still a few more, so you can distribute them amongst yourselves. They’re designed by PR students. Hang them up wherever you want to advertise for Recyclemania. I’m also going to read the stats for Week One. As I explained two weeks ago, we’re doing things a little differently. There are two categories, one for halls with dumpsters and one for halls with toters. They are different ways of recycling materials, and we want to make sure our equations weigh everything equally. All numbers are in lbs. per person living in the hall.
The halls with dumpsters, starting from last place going to first.
Crispell is .16, Collango is .23, Lefevre is .28, Ridgeview is .34, Esopus is .36, and Lenape is in the lead with .5.
The halls with toters, starting from last place going to first.
Bliss is .14, Bouton is .31, Bevier is also .31, Dubois is .33, Scudder is .4, Deyo is .52, Gage is .53, and Capen is in the lead with .61.
I hope I didn’t miss anyone. Any questions?
Mario - Point of order, please be respectful.
Rui - I don’t know if you know this, but a survey was sent out about students ordering posters. Are those being sent to us?
Kaitlyn - As far as I know, we’re still taking requests for those, and then I’m pretty sure that when that dies down, we’re gonna be bringing them to each hall and we’ll have a list of the room numbers that wanted posters.
Capen - What units was that in?
Kaitlyn - Pounds per person.

UPCOMING EVENTS 10:30 PM
Return to Sender, February 21st, Humanities, 7pm-9pm
AC Retreat, February 24th, Art Studio, 10:30am-2pm

HALL CONCERNS 10:31 PM
Dariana - I’ve had many conversations about the fact that my showers are cold, and it makes me sad.
Crispell - Our RD, Bobby, send us an email saying that Crispell’s showers are supposed to be okay now, so I don’t know if that goes for every hall, but before, something was happening, and now they should be okay.
Jennifer - In reference to the showers, the water systems were switched over, so if you are in a newer building, you were switched over. If you live in halls with lukewarm water, it should be getting better soon.
Deyo - Our vending machines say they’re ice cold, but they’re actually 78 degrees so all of our drinks are hot.
Elee - Do you have more than one vending machine?
Deyo - We have two for drinks and one for food. The problem is with both of the drink ones. There’s a food and a drink one on the left side when you come in through the main entrance, and one drink one on the right. Both of the drink machines are warm.

STUDENT CONCERNS FOLLOW-UP 10:33PM
This just in from Emma Morcone, our LGBTQ coordinator here on campus. We now have an updated list of all gender neutral campus bathrooms current and which will be present by fall! Direct link will be in the minutes

STUDENT CONCERNS 10:33PM
Crispell - It’s getting colder, and there’s black ice everywhere, and it’s super dangerous, especially at night.
Chrissy - There is a very limited supply of Facilities workers after hours. I can tell you that the last time it snowed majorly, the plows were going all night. It costs a lot to bring them in, because some of them come from up to an hour away, so be cautious. I’m not saying you shouldn’t worry about ice on the ground, but understand that it’s not an easy fix after-hours because it’s an extra person’s salary.
Collango - In reference to a previous comment, Wednesday was when the big storm happened, and the ice was so bad, I busted my knee. Now, it’s really bruised and purple and swollen and it’s frustrating.
Bevier - In reference to a previous comment, it would cost more to pay for a lawsuit if someone were to break something.
Rui - There’s a lamppost that is out, past the bridge. I’ll email you the specifics.
Elee - You can always call Facilities, during the day especially.
Lenape - Walking behind Gage and Deyo, there’s a rock in the sidewalk. It’s towards Hasbrouck, behind Gage.
Dariana - Are you talking about the huge ones that move? There’s these two massive rocks back there that somehow always end up moving around. It’s very strange.
Elee - Moving the rocks might just be campus mischief.
Lefevre - In reference to a previous comment, there was a rock that was covering the drainage hole that was moved, so that might be what you were thinking of.
Andrea - Is the rock obstructing anything?
Dariana - It depends on the day.
Andrea - If it’s not causing a problem, then it’s not concerning. It’s just confusing.
Elee - If we start taking student confusions, that would be a great time for it.
Bevier - Upstairs, leaving the SUB...
Elee - Where?
Bevier - By Pomodoro’s. The bricks outside of that door are loose, and I keep almost tripping.
Collango - In reference to a previous comment, I literally tripped on those on the way here.
Esopus - It smells like sewage behind Deyo.
Emily - Honestly, that just kind of happens. It’s from when the Gunk freezes, and then thaws, and then freezes, and then thaws. The plants start to rot and it gets really gross. There’s not much that can be done about it. You just kind of have to hold your breath.
Bevier - This is the last one, but they didn’t put enough salt on the bridge, so it was like I was ice-skating the other day.
Jennifer - Apparently, they took the Elting parking lot from residents and made it a commuter lot. Now, there are officially no resident lots near the middle of campus. It’s not fair, and residents deserve parking on campus instead of just on the edges, because it’s not always safe to walk at night.
Crispell - There’s a huge sheet of ice by Wooster and yeah, I was taking my bike over there this morning and was like, “What’s up with this?” It’s by the bike racks. It was just ice.
Emily - I fell there, actually, a few days ago. It’s a thick layer of ice. As far as I know, it’s still there, but call Facilities.
Elee - If you have concerns about ice, call Facilities, because that’s an in-the-moment thing.
Andrea - Yield to redundancy.
Lefevre - Point of information, what is the number for Facilities again?
Elee - 845-257-3301
Dariana - Point of information, I encourage you all to put Facilities in your phone right now. I go around campus just calling them for everything. I think the guy hates me, so I don’t introduce myself anymore.

OPEN FLOOR 10:43PM
Brandon - Hey everyone! I said the same thing two weeks ago. If you’re interested in taking a committee position for SA, there are lots open. I know there are spots on the Student Concerns and UPD committees, and those are just two. If you’re interested, you can go to the next Council of Orgs meeting on 2/26 at 7pm in SUB 62/63. Also, I have a question. Do you guys like Cards Against Humanity? This Wednesday at 5pm in Gage Hall, come meet RA Katrina and RA BK and play Cards Against Humanity with us.
Crispell - So, do you all like to get crafty? Are you looking for something for your significant other or friend for Valentine’s Day? Come to SUB 100 on Wednesday to get your craft on. It’s a UPC event at 1pm.
Deyo - I’m also on UPC. Want to be part of the Programming Board? Our GI is on Tuesday, tomorrow, at 8pm in SUB 402. Be part of our board. Tell us what you want to see.
Collango - Point of information, for the craft program, 100 North or South?
Crispell - North
Mario - Point of order, bring it back.
Bevier - We’re having a Valentine’s Day program in Bevier at 7:30. We’re gonna have pizza and cookies.
Bliss - On 2/24 and 2/25, Dance Association is having our Underground Showcase. It’s done by student choreographers and it’s going to be great. On Saturday, there’s a show at 2pm and one at 8pm, and on Sunday, there’s a show at 2pm.
Lenape - Hi everyone. I’m from Domino Effect flag team, and we’re having our GI on Thursday, along with another meeting tomorrow and one Thursday. Come on down if you’ve never done it before but you’ve always wanted to try, or if you’ve done it forever, or even if you’ve never heard of it. We’re meeting from 7pm to 8pm by the Racquetball courts in Elting Gym. Same time, same place on Thursday.

Esopus - Tomorrow, the BSU is hosting a Game Night with Urban Lyrics, and it’s focused on the 90s. It’s in SUB 402 at 6pm tomorrow.

Mario - If you love being a SUNY New Paltz student, apply to be a Student Ambassador. The application is open until 2/28. We go out and give tours. Come apply.

Elee - Are you interested in becoming an OL? There are going to be GIs! All of them are here, in 62/63. There’s one on 2/20 at 8pm, two on 2/21 at 11:30am and 5pm, and one on 2/22 at 7pm. I’ll be at that one! There will be free pizza and soda at all of them.

Bliss - Dance Underground is going to be in McKenna.

Emily - There’s more Recyclemania posters on the floor right over here, so take as many as you’d like. I don’t want them. Not that I don’t want them, but my hall has already taken care of it for me.

PASSING OF MOLLY THE MOOSE 10:48PM
Esopus gave her a shiny, glittery elephant shirt and is giving her to Scudder!

QUOTE OF THE WEEK 10:49PM
“Remember this: Nothing is written in the stars. Not these stars, nor any other. No one controls your destiny.” - Gregory Maguire, Wicked
