

Designing a Supply Network with Many Practical Constraints

Lei Lei and Andrzej Ruszczyński

Rutgers University, Dept. of MS/IS, 94 Rockefeller Rd., Piscataway, NJ 08854;

Shuguang Liu and Hua Zhong

Rutgers University, Grad. Sch. of Mgmt. PO Box 5062, New Brunswick, NJ 08903-5062

We study the problem of designing a complex supply network after 2 companies merge. An aggregate LP model is proposed to determine the optimal flow through the network and an approximation model is developed for the vehicle routing to minimize the costs under many practical constraints.